

Level Expected at the End of EYFS

Understanding the World Past and Present

Talk about the lives of the people around them and their roles in society; - Know some similarities and differences between things in the past and now, drawing on their experiences and what has been read in class; - Understand the past through settings, characters and events encountered in books read in class and storytelling

Speaking:

Participate in small group, class and one-to-one discussions, offering their own ideas, using recently introduced vocabulary.

Key Stage 1 National Curriculum Expectations	Key Stage 2 National Curriculum Expectations
Pupils should be taught about:	Pupils should be taught about:
 changes within living memory. Where appropriate, these should be used to reveal aspects of change in national life; events beyond living memory that are significant nationally or globally [for example the Great Fire of London, the first aeroplane flight or events commemorated through festivals or anniversaries]; the lives of significant individuals in the past who have contributed to national and international achievements. Some should be used to compare aspects of life in different periods of time over history. significant historical events, people and places in their own locality. 	 changes in Britain from the Stone Age to the Iron Age; (Robins) the Roman Empire and its impact on Britain; Britain's settlement by Anglo-Saxons and Scots; the Viking and Anglo-Saxon struggle for the Kingdom of England to the time of Edward the Confessor; a local history study; a study of an aspect or theme in British history that extends pupils' chronological knowledge beyond 1066; the achievements of the earliest civilizations - an overview of where and when the first civilizations appeared and a depth study of one of the following: Ancient Sumer; The Indus Valley; Ancient Egypt; Ancient Greece - a study of Greek life and achievements and their influence on the western world; a non-European society that provides contrasts with British history - one study chosen from: early Islamic civilization, including a study of Baghdad c. AD 900; Mayan civilization c. AD 900; Benin (West Africa) c. AD 900-1300.

	Ks1	LKs2	iUKs2
	dren should understand some of the ways in which we find out about the past and identify different ways in which it is represented	is constructed from a range of sources.	History National Curriculum Iren should understand how our knowledge of the past is constructed from a range of sources. Iren can:
r t io	a start to compare two versions of a past event;	or story in history and identify differences;	a find and analyse a wide range of evidence about the past;
terpretations	 observe and use pictures, photographs and artefacts to find out about the past; start to use stories or accounts to distinguish between fact and fiction; 	b investigate different accounts of historical events and be able to explain some of the reasons why the accounts may be different.
Historical Inter	d explain that there are different types of evidence and sources that can be used to		c consider different ways of checking the accuracy of interpretations of the past;
	help represent the past.		d start to understand the difference between primary and secondary evidence and the impact of this on reliability;
			e show an awareness of the concept of propaganda;
_			f know that people in the past represent events or ideas in a way that may be to persuade others;
			g begin to evaluate the usefulness of different sources.

History National Curriculum

aren should ask and answer questions, using other sources to show that they know and understand key features of events.

tren can:

- observe or handle evidence to ask simple questions about the past;
- b observe or handle evidence to find answers to simple questions about the past on the basis of simple observations;
- choose and select evidence and say how it can be used to find out about the past.

History National Curriculum

s should regularly address and sometimes devise historically valid questions about change, cause, similarity and difference, and significance.

tren should construct informed responses that involve thoughtful selection and organisation of relevant historical information

dren can:

- a use a range of sources to find out about the past;
- b gather more detail from sources such as maps to build up a clearer picture of the past:
- regularly address and sometimes devise own questions to find answers about the past;
- begin to undertake their own research.

History National Curriculum

s should regularly address and sometimes devise historically valid questions about change, cause, similarity and difference, and significance.

tren should construct informed responses that involve thoughtful selection and organisation of relevant historical information.

dren can:

- recognise when they are using primary and secondary sources of information to investigate the past;
- b use a wide range of different evidence to collect evidence about the past, such as ceramics, pictures, documents, printed sources, posters, online material, pictures, photographs, artefacts, historic statues, figures, sculptures, historic sites; (AT1-SP1 2022)
- select relevant sections of information to address historically valid questions and construct detailed, informed responses; (AT1 2021)
- d investigate their own lines of enquiry by posing historically valid questions to answer SP1 2022

History National Curriculum

s should develop an awareness of the past, using common words and phrases relating to the passing of time. They should know where the people and events they study fit within a chronological framework.

dren can:

- sequence artefacts and events that are close together in time;
- b order dates from earliest to latest on simple timelines:
- sequence pictures from different periods;
- d describe memories and changes that have happened in their own lives;
- use words and phrases such as: old, new, earliest, latest, past, present, future, century, new, newest, old, oldest, modern, before, after to show the passing of time.

History National Curriculum

s should continue to develop a chronologically secure knowledge and understanding of British, local and world history, establishing clear narratives within and across the periods they study.

lren can:

- sequence several events, artefacts or historical figures on a timeline using dates, including those that are sometimes further apart, and terms related to the unit being studied and passing of time:
- b understand that a timeline can be divided into BC (Before Christ) and AD (Anno Domini).

History National Curriculum

s should continue to develop a chronologically secure knowledge and understanding of British, local and world history, establishing clear narratives within and across the periods they study.

lren can:

- order an increasing number of significant events, movements and dates on a timeline using dates accurately; (WWII)
- b accurately use dates and terms to describe historical events:
- understand and describe in some detail the main changes to an aspect in a period in history;
- understand how some historical events/periods occurred concurrently in different locations, e.g. AD Romans and Vikings

Changes in the Past

History National Curriculum

s should identify similarities and differences between ways of life in different periods.

tren should choose and use parts of stories and other sources to show that they know and understand key features of events iren can:

- recognise some similarities and differences between the past and the present:
- identify similarities and differences between ways of life in different periods
- know and recount episodes from stories and significant events in history;
- d understand that there are reasons why people in the past acted as they did
- describe significant individuals from the past.

History National Curriculum

ren should note connections, contrasts and trends over time

lren can:

- note key changes over a period of time and be able to give reasons for those changes;
- find out about the everyday lives of people in time studied compared with our life today;
- explain how people and events in the past have influenced life today;
- identify key features, aspects and events of the time studied:
- describe connections and contrasts between aspects of history, people, events and artefacts studied.
- recognise some similarities and differences between the past and the present;
- identify similarities and differences between ways of life in different periods;
- know and recount episodes from stories and significant events in history;
- understand that there are reasons why people in the past acted as they did;
- describe significant individuals from the past.00-[;

History National Curriculum

s should note connections, contrasts and trends over time

iren can:

- identify and note connections, contrasts and trends over time in the everyday lives of people; (Ancient Greece)
- use appropriate historical terms such as culture. religious, social, economic and political when describing the past;
- examine causes and results of great events and the impact these had on people;
- describe the key features of the past, including attitudes, beliefs and the everyday lives of men, women and children.

History National Curriculum

s should use a wide vocabulary of everyday historical terms.

dren can:

- a talk, write and draw about things from the past;
- use historical vocabulary to retell simple stories about the past;
- use drama/role play to communicate their knowledge about the past.

History National Curriculum

s should develop the appropriate use of historical terms.

dren can:

- use and understand appropriate historical vocabulary to communicate information such as ruled, reigned, empire, invasion, conquer, kingdoms;
- b present, communicate and organise ideas about the past using models, drama role play and different genres of writing including letters, recounts, poems, adverts, diaries, posters and quides;
- start to present ideas based on their own research about a studied period.
- d show an understanding of historical terms, such as monarch, parliament, government, war, remembrance;
- talk, write and draw about things from the past;
 Year 1 did this too in AT1.
- f use historical vocabulary to retell simple stories about the past;
- use drama/role play to communicate their knowledge about the past. Year 1 did this too in AT1.

History National Curriculum

s should develop the appropriate use of historical terms.

dren can:

- know and show a good understanding of historical vocabulary including abstract terms such as democracy, civilisation, social, political, economic, cultural, religious;
- present, communicate and organise ideas about from the past using detailed discussions and debates (Democracy) and different genres of writing such as myths, instructions, accounts, diaries, letters, information/travel guides, posters, news reports;
- plan and present a self-directed project or research about the studied period.

h